I. INTRODUCTION

1. The Memorandum of Understanding between the Conference of the Parties to the Convention on Biological Diversity and the Council of the Global Environment Facility provides that the GEF Council will report to the Conference of the Parties on all GEF-financed activities carried out in implementing the Convention. Paragraphs 3.2 and 3.3 provide:

“In particular, the reports will provide detailed information on the GEF biodiversity focal area, including:

- (a) Information on how GEF has responded to the guidance provided by the Conference of the Parties as described by paragraph 2, including, where appropriate, through its incorporation in the GEF operational strategy and operational programs;
- (b) The conformity of the approved work programs with guidance of the Conference of the Parties;
- (c) A synthesis of the different projects under implementation and a listing of the projects approved by the Council in the biodiversity focal area, as well as a financial report with an indication of the financial resources allocated to these projects;
- (d) A list of project proposals submitted for approval to the Council, through the GEF Implementing Agencies, by eligible Parties, including reporting on their approval status and, in cases of projects not approved, the reasons therefore;
- (e) A review of the project activities approved by GEF and their outcomes, including information on funding and progress in implementation; and
- (f) Additional financial resources leveraged by GEF for the implementation of the Convention.”

2. This report, approved by the GEF Council, has been prepared for the fourth meeting of the Conference of the Parties to the Convention on Biological Diversity to be held in Bratislava, Slovakia, from 4 to 15 May 1998. It describes GEF activities in the biodiversity area and provides specific information on how the GEF has applied the guidance of the Conference of the Parties. This report covers the period from July 1, 1996¹ to December 31, 1997.

¹ The end of the period covered by the GEF report to the third meeting of the Conference of the Parties.

II. HIGHLIGHTS OF GEF COUNCIL DECISIONS DURING THE REPORTING PERIOD

GEF Council Meetings

3. The Council met three times during the reporting period: October 8-10, 1996, April 30- May 1, 1997 and November 4-6, 1997. During this time, the Council made the following decisions of direct relevance to GEF-financed biodiversity activities:

- (a) Approval of five work programs², with GEF funding for biological diversity activities totaling US$ 246 million;
- (b) Approval of a work program and budget for the GEF monitoring and evaluation and dissemination program;
- (c) Approval of procedures to expedite the processing and financing of medium-sized projects;
- (d) Approval of principles for GEF financing of targeted research;
- (e) Approval of follow-up action to a STAP workshop on land degradation as it relates to the GEF focal areas;
- (f) Reappointment of Mr. Mohamed T. El-Ashry as the Chief Executive Officer and Chair of the GEF;
- (g) Approval of the structure and organization of the GEF Assembly to be held April 1-3, 1998, in New Delhi, India; and
- (h) Request to the Trustee of the GEF Trust Fund to initiate, in cooperation with the CEO/Chairman of the GEF, replenishment of the Trust Fund in early 1997.

Replenishment of the GEF Trust Fund

4. In March 1997, a planning meeting was held to discuss the work plan for the replenishment of the GEF Trust Fund. Participants welcomed the initiation of the second GEF replenishment and noted its importance as the leading multilateral funding mechanism for global environmental protection. The meeting emphasized the importance of initiating the replenishment at a time when the accomplishments of Rio

² In addition to the work programs that were approved at the three Council meetings, the Council approved two work programs by mail in March and August 1997.

are being reviewed in a number of meetings, especially the Special Session of the General Assembly in June 1997. It stressed the importance of a successful replenishment of GEF resources for international cooperation in all four focal areas, including actions concerning biological diversity and climate change through the effective implementation of the Conventions.

5. Participants initially agreed that the second replenishment should be discussed and agreed over the course of three meetings to be convened in May, September, and November 1997. It was agreed at the November meeting that the final replenishment meeting will take place in early February 1998. At these meetings, participants considered preliminary documentation concerning GEF programming of resources, burden sharing frameworks, and exchange rate considerations. There was a consensus among participants that the target size for the second replenishment of the GEF should be US$2.75 billion. During the process, participants welcomed ongoing efforts to include new donors in the replenishment and urged that these efforts be continued.

6. Apart from burden sharing, two factors were identified as particularly important to the successful outcome of the replenishment negotiations. One was the GEF evaluation exercise being undertaken prior to the first Assembly meeting, and the other a signal of clear support for the role of the GEF as the financial mechanism of the Conventions.

III. IMPLEMENTATION OF CONVENTION GUIDANCE

7. At its third meeting, the Conference of the Parties approved Decision III/5, Additional Guidance to the Financial Mechanism, to be followed by the GEF in its role as the institutional structure operating the financial mechanism on an interim basis under the Convention. The meeting noted that this guidance was additional to that already provided to the GEF in decision I/2 and II/6 of the first and second meetings of the Conference of the Parties. The guidance adopted by the third meeting urges the Implementing Agencies to enhance cooperation to increase efforts to improve the processing and delivery systems of the GEF. It calls for priority to be given to activities for capacity building for biosafety, taxonomy, the clearinghouse mechanism, and indigenous and local communities embodying traditional lifestyles. The guidance also calls upon the GEF to support efforts for the conservation and sustainable use of biological diversity important to agriculture. The Conference of the Parties reconfirmed the importance of GEF support for incentive measures and requested the GEF, in preparing projects, to include, when relevant to the project's objectives, components addressing targeted research and promotion of the understanding of the conservation and sustainable use of biological diversity. Along with Governments, regional economic integration organizations and competent international, regional and national organizations, the GEF was urged to support capacity building programs promoting the development and implementation of legislative, administration and policy measures and guidance on access to genetic resources, including scientific, technical, business, legal and management skills and capacities. The GEF was also requested to collaborate with the Secretariat of the Convention in preparing a proposal on the means to address the fair and equitable sharing of benefits arising out of genetic resources. This proposal is to be considered by the fourth meeting of the Conference of the Parties.

8. As noted in Decision III/5, the guidance approved at the third meeting of the Conference of the Parties is additional to the guidance approved at the first and second meetings of the Conference of the Parties. Upon receiving guidance from the Parties, the GEF reviews its policy and program activities to ascertain that the guidance is appropriately incorporated in GEF operations. New guidance can lead to changes in operational policies, operational procedures, and in the development of new project activities.

9. Reflection of guidance through the approval of new project activities can take some time depending upon whether that guidance builds upon earlier program priorities approved by the Conference of the Parties, in which case the GEF might be able to respond quickly, or whether the program priority is such that it requires policy work to clarify the most effective operational response. In some instances, the GEF has already approved project activities that address the new program priority, since the project is directly relevant to a previously identified program priority. In the case of a program priority for which there is no previous experience, the GEF Secretariat and the Implementing Agencies undertake to define the most effective operational response before working with recipient governments to identify project opportunities.

10. Part A under this section of the report describes the project activities that have been approved during the reporting period. These activities are primarily consistent with the guidance approved by the Parties at their first and second meetings. Some of the projects, however, also address program areas assigned priority by the third meeting of the Parties. Annex A of this report presents a matrix listing the projects together with project preparation financing that was approved during the reporting period together with information as to how that financing responds to the program priorities approved by the Conference of the Parties.

11. Part B under this section of the report describes the operational policy and procedural response of the GEF Council, the Secretariat and the Implementing Agencies to the additional guidance approved by the third meeting of the Conference of the Parties.

A. Biodiversity Project Activities

12. In the reporting period, the following financing was allocated for project activities in the biodiversity area:

Table 1: Project Financing in the Area of Biodiversity - July 1996 to December 1997

Type of activity	Number of activities	GEF financing	Co-financing	Total Period Financing
Project preparation ³	21	$6.19 million	$ 2.99 million	$9.18 million
Enabling Activities	93	$17.94 million		$17.94 million
Investment/Technical Assistance Projects	35	$246.51 million	$707.46 million	$953.97 million
TOTAL	149	$270.64 million	$710.45 million	$981.09 million

13. As is indicated in the table, total project financing during the reporting period amounted to over US$ 981 million, of which the GEF provided over $270 million in grant financing. An additional US$ 710 million in co-financing was raised for biodiversity project activities.

14. Since the establishment of the pilot phase of the GEF, a total of US$ 1.74 billion has been allocated to biodiversity activities (See Annex B). Of this sum, US$ 718 million was provided in grants from the GEF Trust Fund. An additional US$ 1.02 billion was contributed through co-financing. The GEF publication, Quarterly Operational Report, lists all projects financed by the GEF, and provides a brief summary of the project together with up-dated information on the project's status. Copies of the most recent Quarterly Operational Report will be available for those participating in the fourth meeting of the Conference of the Parties.

15. As stated above, Annex A shows how project preparation financing and each project address specific project-related program priorities determined by the Conference of the Parties. It should be kept in mind that some policies approved by the Conference of the Parties are reflected in all GEF-financed biodiversity project activities.⁴

³ This does not include initial project preparation funds (Block A) which are used at the very early stages of project or program identification.

⁴ This includes guidance requesting that projects: be consistent with national priorities, strategies and action plans; contribute to capacity building and fulfillment of Convention obligations; and promote involvement of stakeholders in order to address the social dimensions related to poverty.

16. Tables 5 below lists projects in the GEF focal area of international waters that have significant biodiversity project components. Table 6 lists projects that are related to a number of focal areas, including biodiversity. These later projects are often concerned with environmental awareness.

Enabling Activity Projects

17. During the reporting period, 93⁵ enabling activity projects were financed. One for Brazil was approved by the Council and the rest by the CEO under expedited procedures. The GEF financing for enabling activities in the reporting period exceeds US$17 million (see Table 2). All these projects have been developed with the full collaboration of the recipient country Party, and all of them address to some extent the preparation of national reports. In addition, as stated in paragraph 26, the revised operational criteria for enabling activities make provision for capacity building activities for purposes of the clearing-house mechanism, including financial assistance to purchase hardware, software, and to cover the costs of access and training. By the end of December 1997, the following countries received GEF assistance for the purposes of the clearing-house mechanism: Czech Republic, Guinea, Hungary, Madagascar, Malawi, Mozambique, Niger, Oman, and Seychelles. With an additional amount of US$87,688 for capacity building related to the clearing-house mechanism, total GEF allocations for biodiversity enabling activities in the reporting period was US$17,948,512.

International Waters Projects with Biodiversity Components

20. At its second meeting, the Conference of the Parties decided to forward to the GEF, other funding agencies and other relevant international bodies, Decision II/10, Conservation and Sustainable Use of Marine and Coastal Biological Diversity, to be taken into account in considering activities related to the conservation and sustainable use of marine and coastal biological diversity⁶. The GEF has taken this decision into account through the implementation of its operational program on coastal, marine, and freshwater ecosystems. It should also be emphasized that many projects in the GEF focal area of international waters include significant biodiversity activities of direct

Project Activities Supporting Other Biodiversity-related Conventions

22. Decision III/21, Relationship of the Convention with the Commission on Sustainable Development and Biodiversity-Related Conventions, other International Agreements, Institutions and processes of Relevance, invites Contracting Parties to explore opportunities for accessing funding through the GEF for relevant projects which fulfill the eligibility criteria and guidance provided by the Conference of the Parties to the GEF. In considering project proposals in the biodiversity area, the GEF Council has encouraged financing of biodiversity proposals that are also relevant to the biological diversity-related conventions referred to in Decision III/21. Annex C lists approved project preparation financing and approved projects which support other biodiversity-related conventions' activities. These activities also serve to directly strengthen the implementation of the Convention on Biological Diversity.

Project Proposals Submitted for Approval to the Council by Eligible Country Parties

23. The Memorandum of Understanding requests the GEF to provide a list of project proposals submitted for approval to the Council, through the GEF Implementing Agencies, by eligible Parties, including reporting on their approval status and, in cases of projects not approved, the reasons therefore⁷. All project proposals submitted to the Council for approval during the period of July 1996 to December 1997 were approved by the Council.

B. Operational Policy and Procedural Steps Developed in Light of the Guidance of the Conference of the Parties

24. The operational response of the GEF to the guidance of the Conference of the Parties and the actions being taken pursuant to that guidance have been developed in collaboration with the Implementing Agencies and the Secretariat of the Convention. When additional guidance is approved by the Conference of the Parties, it is integrated with existing operational modalities and strategies to the greatest extent possible. This includes modifications to the operational criteria for enabling activities and to the operational programs concerning biodiversity, and inclusion of specific items in the operational policy work program of the GEF. Preparatory work needed to define longer term approaches, such as in the area of agrobiodiversity and benefits sharing, is also undertaken. Highlights of relevant activities during the reporting period are described below.

Enabling Activities

25. The GEF Secretariat and the Implementing Agencies prepared operational criteria for the preparation of enabling activities project proposals by developing country Parties. These criteria form the basis for the expedited financing of the urgent implementation of Article 6, preparation of national reports, and other enabling activities mentioned in Decision III/5. At its meeting in October 1996, the Council urged the Secretariat and the Implementing Agencies to seek every opportunity to expedite the work of the GEF in recipient countries while recognizing the steps that have been agreed upon to ensure the rapid preparation, approval and implementation of enabling activities and medium-sized projects.⁸

⁷ Memorandum of Understanding, paragraph 3.3. (d).

⁸ Joint Summary of the Chairs, GEF Council Meeting, October 8-10, 1996, Appendix, Decision on Agenda Item 9, Relations with Conventions.

26. The criteria have now been revised to reflect the guidance approved by the third meeting of the Conference of the Parties. Revisions address the definition of the general scope of activity norms and cost benchmarks. More specifically, the following activities have been incorporated in the general scope of the criteria:

- (a) capacity building to assist Parties in the implementation of Articles 6 and 8;
- (b) identification of priority issues specifically related to those components of biological diversity under threat;
- (c) capacity building in biosafety;
- (d) capacity building for initial assessment and monitoring programs, including taxonomy;
- (e) supporting efforts for the conservation and sustainable use of biological diversity important to agriculture;
- (f) supporting the implementation of the clearing-house mechanism;
- (g) supporting incentive measures;
- (h) capacity building to implement measures on access to genetic resources; and
- (i) an examination of support for capacity building projects for indigenous and local communities embodying traditional lifestyles.

27. A workshop was organized jointly by the GEF and Convention Secretariats on enabling activities at the meeting of the Convention's Subsidiary Body on Scientific, Technical and Technological Advice (SBSTTA) in September 1997. The primary purpose of the workshop was to promote the timely preparation of each Party's first national report to the Conference of the Parties. The presentation included information as to how countries may access GEF financing through the enabling activities expedited procedures to assist them in the preparation of their national reports.

Operational Programs

28. New provisions have been added to each relevant operational program⁹ to incorporate the policies and priorities approved by the Conference of the Parties.

⁹ There are 4 GEF operational programs concerning biodiversity focused on achieving programmatic impacts through projects addressing: arid and semi-arid ecosystems; coastal, marine and freshwater ecosystems (including wetlands); forest ecosystems; and mountain ecosystems.

Specifically, country driven projects consistent with national priorities and objectives and incorporating the following will be promoted:

- (a) for capacity building for biosafety¹⁰, specific projects or project components will be formulated on a case-by-case basis in the context of any of the four biodiversity operational programs;¹¹
- (b) for addressing issues in assessment and monitoring, including taxonomy¹², activities to develop and carry out an initial assessment for designing, implementing and monitoring programs may be financed. Special efforts will be made to identify appropriate projects in small island states;
- (c) for agrobiodiversity¹³, activities will be promoted that demonstrate and apply techniques to conserve biodiversity important to agriculture; for example, wild relatives of domesticated species;
- (d) in addition to support for the clearing-house mechanism available through enabling activities¹⁴, the Implementing Agencies will work with interested parties to identify and support activities, in the context of the operational programs, for country-driven pilot projects;
- (e) on access to genetic resources¹⁵, project opportunities will be sought to promote capacity building activities in the context of each of the four operational programs;
- (f) on examining support for capacity building for indigenous and local communities¹⁶, embodying traditional lifestyles, opportunities will be sought to include project components in biodiversity projects to address this issue;
- (g) on targeted research¹⁷, opportunities will be sought to include project components, when relevant to the project's objectives and consistent with country-driven national priorities, that deepen our understanding of the

- (i) on in-situ and ex-situ conservation¹⁹, projects will be promoted which incorporate and implement elements of Article 8.

Activities on Operational Policy Development

29. At its third meeting, the Conference of the Parties requested “the Secretariat of the Convention and the Global Environment Facility to collaborate in preparing, for consideration by the Conference of the Parties at its fourth meeting, a proposal on the means to address the fair and equitable sharing of the benefits arising out of genetic resources including assistance to developing country Parties.”²⁰

30. In response to this decision, the Secretariats of the GEF and Convention have jointly prepared for the fourth meeting of the Parties a paper entitled: Addressing the Fair and Equitable Sharing of the Benefits Arising out of Genetic Resources: Options for Assistance to Developing Country Parties. The paper outlines the concept of benefit-sharing as it appears in the Convention, explores the definitions and scope of key terms involved in access to genetic resources, examines some key measures for the sharing of benefits, and presents options, for consideration at the fourth meeting of the Conference of the Parties, of assistance to developing countries. In order to seek suggestions and advice from different stakeholders, the GEF and Convention Secretariats consulted widely during the development of the paper, including through a jointly organized workshop at the third meeting of SBSTTA.

31. The Conference of the Parties also adopted decision III/11 on the Conservation and Sustainable Use of Agricultural Biological Diversity. The decision established a multi-year program of activities aiming at promoting the positive effects and mitigating negative impacts of agricultural practices on biological diversity in agro-ecosystems and their interface with other ecosystems. Decision III/5 called on the GEF to provide financial resources to developing countries for country driven activities and programs, consistent with national priorities and objectives, for supporting , as a priority, efforts for the conservation and sustainable use of biological diversity important to agriculture.

32. Conservation of biodiversity important to agriculture is addressed in the GEF Operational Strategy. The strategy together with the four GEF operational programs in the biodiversity area recognize a range of uses of biodiversity, including in intensive agriculture, forestry, and livestock production. In response to the guidance of the Conference of the Parties, the GEF Secretariat, in consultation with the Implementing Agencies, STAP, and the Convention Secretariat, is currently preparing a policy note to provide a more focused framework for GEF activities concerning the conservation and sustainable use of biological diversity important to agriculture. Concerted efforts to seek diverse visions on the proposed framework have been made. It is expected that the policy note will be finalized by April 1998.

Expedited Procedures for the Approval of Medium-sized Projects

33. Decision II/6, paragraph 10, recommends that the GEF “explore the possibility of promoting diverse forms of public involvement and more effective collaboration between all tiers of government and civil society, including the feasibility of a program of grants for medium-sized projects.” At its meeting in October 1996, the Council approved procedures to expedite the processing and implementation of medium-sized projects -- projects for which the requested GEF financing does not exceed US$ 1 million. It is expected that such projects should provide greater flexibility in the programming of GEF resources and encourage a wider range of interested parties to propose and develop project concepts. An information kit designed to assist in the preparation of project proposals has been prepared and circulated widely. The GEF Secretariat and the Implementing Agencies used the project development workshops and other opportunities to disseminate information on medium-sized projects procedures.

34. The goal of these procedures is to establish simplified and expedited means to promote high-quality projects. Medium-sized projects often will not require the same level of preparation and oversight as larger projects. The preliminary experience gained by the GEF shows that medium-sized projects are particularly attractive for projects in the area of biodiversity. For instance, out of 47 project ideas submitted to date for eligibility, 22 (47% of all project ideas received) are related to biodiversity.

Other Activities Responsive to the Guidance

35. The preambular paragraphs of decision III/5 recognize certain challenges experienced by developing countries in seeking funds from the GEF. In particular, mention was made of the GEF Operational Strategy, criteria for determining incremental cost application and the project cycle and project procedures. Improvements have continued during the present reporting period to respond to the concerns raised.

36. The GEF Operational Strategy: The GEF Operational Strategy and the Project Cycle were developed to guide the GEF in the preparation of country-driven initiatives in its four focal areas, one of which is biological diversity. The strategy explicitly states that

“...all GEF-funded activities in biodiversity will be in full conformity with the guidance provided by the Conference of the Parties to the Convention”²¹. The strategy provides that the GEF is to “maintain sufficient flexibility to respond to changing circumstances, including evolving guidance of the Conference of the Parties and experience gained from monitoring and evaluation activities²².” This report illustrates how the framework established by the Operational Strategy can quickly incorporate additional guidance from the Conference of the Parties.

37. In order to assist countries to better understand the GEF Operational Strategy and procedures to access GEF resources, a project development workshop was prepared and has been presented to representatives of over 124 countries. The workshop explains the GEF project cycle, and how to expedite project approval. The GEF has received very positive feedback about the usefulness of the workshops. To date 38 workshops (See Annex D) have been organized in Sub-Saharan Africa, Asia/Pacific, Latin America/Caribbean, Europe/Central Asia and Middle East/North Africa.

38. Criteria for determining incremental costs: The GEF Council has recognized the need for a flexible application of the concept of incremental costs²³, and the GEF continues to strive to apply the concept in a flexible, pragmatic and on a case-by-case basis in keeping with decisions of the Conference of the Parties. During the reporting period, the following activities related to incremental costs were undertaken:

- (a) streamlined procedures for the estimation of incremental costs were issued in March 1997;
- (b) at its meeting in November 1997, the GEF Council emphasized the importance of the principle of incremental costs to the GEF while recognizing the difficulties that continued to be encountered in its application. The Council also called upon the Implementing Agencies to ensure that recipient countries were fully involved in negotiations on incremental costs of their proposed projects. The Council requested the GEF Secretariat, in consultation with the Implementing Agencies and the Secretariats of the Climate Change and Biodiversity Conventions, to undertake further work to clarify definitions and to further facilitate application of the incremental cost principle. This work is to encompass the preparation of operational criteria and paradigm cases for different types of GEF activities and projects, and is to be considered by the GEF Council at its meeting in November 1998.

Review of the Financial Mechanism

²³ See Decision on Agenda item 8, Joint Summary of the GEF Council, May 1995.

39. The Conference of the Parties decided at its second session “that the restructured GEF shall continue to serve as the institutional structure to operate the financial mechanism under the Convention on an interim basis, in accordance with Article 39 of the Convention;” and also decided “to undertake the first review of the effectiveness of the financial mechanism at its fourth meeting in 1997 and a review every three years.”²⁴ At its third meeting, the Conference of the Parties adopted the objectives and criteria for the first review of the effectiveness of the financial mechanism to be conducted in time for the fourth meeting of the Conference of the Parties.²⁵

40. The GEF Council requested the Secretariat to collaborate, as appropriate, with the Convention in its review.²⁶ The GEF Secretariat and the Implementing Agencies have worked with the Secretariat of the Convention to assist as fully as possible in the review of the GEF. For instance, the GEF Secretariat and the Implementing Agencies provided all information requested by the CBD Secretariat to prepare for the review and assisted the CBD Secretariat while it was undertaking one of the field visits for its report.

IV. GEF MONITORING AND EVALUATION ACTIVITIES

41. At its October 1996 meeting, the Council approved a work program and budget for the GEF monitoring, evaluation, and dissemination program. It is fully recognized by the Council that the Conference of the Parties will be an important user of the results that will emerge from the GEF monitoring and evaluation. This work program includes activities at all stages of the project cycle concerning the design of monitoring and evaluation components in projects, performance monitoring reports, mid-term evaluations, project completion reports and performance audits, and evaluation of project impact. The program also provides for an evaluation of the performance of the operational strategy, and assessments of GEF’s global results and impacts.

Study of GEF’s Overall Performance

42. In this context, a study of GEF’s Overall Performance is being undertaken to assess to what extent the GEF has achieved, or is making progress towards the achievement of, the main objectives and guidelines laid down during the restructuring in 1994. The report will be an input for the GEF Assembly to be held in April 1998, but is equally intended to inform all GEF stakeholders, particularly the Conference of the Parties to the Conventions, the GEF Council, Implementing Agencies, executing agencies, NGOs, and the interested public. The study will assess, among other things, GEF's approaches and strategies to operationalize Convention guidance and Council decisions.

43. In the area of biodiversity, the study team will assess the GEF's contribution to country-level processes that prepare countries to implement the Convention, including assistance to countries for fulfilling their reporting requirements and taking related measures in compliance with the Convention. The study will also examine the degree to which the identification and implementation of projects is country-driven. The study will examine the information sharing and the coordination between the Convention Secretariat and the GEF Secretariat, as well as between the Parties to the Convention and the GEF Council Members. It will also present the main lessons learned in project implementation to date. In the preparation of the studies, ten field visits were being undertaken and information collected by local consultants in six other countries. It is expected that the field visits will assist in identifying practical problems encountered by recipient countries during all phases of the project and will contribute to the Council's efforts to continuously improve the performance of the GEF.

Study of GEF Project Lessons

44. The Study of GEF Project Lessons was commissioned in April 1997. The study, conducted by Resource Futures International of Ottawa, Canada, assessed experience to date under projects approved during the Pilot Phase to identify factors that account for GEF project success or problems. It entailed a general review of 30 projects, with field visits to five and more detailed analysis of another six of these projects. The study focused particular attention on three topics identified as high priority by project managers and staff and reflect the fact that stakeholder participation is a key feature of the GEF: (1) building partnerships and understanding among project implementers and communities, (2) integration of project activities with national policies and priorities, and (3) approaches to ensure effective private sector involvement in GEF projects. The study will provide the basis for a series of "Project Lessons Notes" planned by the GEF Monitoring and Evaluation team beginning in 1998.

Project Implementation Review

45. Under the monitoring and evaluation program, project implementation reviews are carried out annually by the GEF Implementing Agencies and the Secretariat. The reviews have two purposes: 1) to examine the status of GEF projects, and 2) to identify lessons learned from GEF experience and share them broadly within the GEF family and with other interested parties. The project review process is designed to complement and strengthen internal portfolio management procedures used by the Implementing Agencies.

46. For the 1997 project implementation review, each agency was asked to prepare a financial analysis of its GEF portfolio, a summary overview emphasizing key trends in this portfolio and lessons learned to date, and individual reports for all projects that had been in implementation for at least a year as of June 30, 1997. Each project report rated implementation progress and the likelihood that its global environmental objectives would be achieved. In addition, agencies were asked to address two cross-cutting issues in their overviews and project reports: 1) experience in obtaining stakeholder involvement and assuring that projects are country-driven and reflect recipient commitment, and 2) the extent of private sector (NGO and for-profit) involvement in the project and any factors that may limit such involvement.

47. The 1997 review provides a summary of the portfolio of projects in implementation in each of the GEF's four focal areas. About half of the projects reviewed were in the biodiversity focal area. The review highlights the areas of significant progress identified during the FY97, experiences gained in implementing projects over the past year, and the principal challenges facing projects in the area of biological diversity. Copies of the 1997 review will be available to the Parties at their fourth meeting.

V. ISSUES REQUIRING FURTHER GUIDANCE

Eligibility Issues

48. The Instrument for the Establishment of the Restructured GEF provides that "GEF grants that are made available within the framework of the financial mechanisms of the conventions referred to in paragraph 6 shall be in conformity with the eligibility criteria decided by the Conference of the Parties of each convention."²⁷ The first meeting of the Conference of the Parties decided that "Only developing countries that are Parties to the Convention are eligible to receive funding upon the entry into force of the Convention for them."²⁸ In operating the financial mechanism of the Convention, the GEF and its Implementing Agencies have encountered some difficulties in confirming whether certain countries are eligible for GEF assistance under the financial mechanism of the Convention. This usually occurs in cases where a country would not be eligible under the GEF eligibility rules of paragraph 9 (b)²⁹ of the Instrument, but may well be

²⁷ See paragraph 9 (a), the Instrument for the Establishment of the Restructured GEF.

²⁸ Decision I/2 "Financial Resources and Mechanism", Annex I, II. Eligibility Criteria, Report to the First Meeting of the Conference of the Parties to the Convention on Biological Diversity, UNEP/CBD/1/17, February 28, 1995.

²⁹ Paragraph 9 of the GEF Instrument provides "GEF funding shall be made available for activities within the focal areas in paragraphs 2 and 3 of this Instrument in accordance with the following eligibility criteria:

(a) GEF grants that are made available within the framework of the financial mechanisms of the conventions referred to in paragraph 6 shall be in conformity with the eligibility criteria decided by the Conference of the Parties of each convention, as provided under the arrangements or agreements referred to in paragraph 27;

(b) All other GEF grants shall be made available to eligible recipient countries and, where appropriate, for other activities promoting the purposes of the Facility in accordance with this paragraph and any additional eligibility criteria determined by the Council. A country shall be an eligible recipient of GEF grants if it is eligible to borrow from the World Bank (IBRD and/or IDA) or if it is an eligible recipient of UNDP technical assistance through its eligible under the Convention as a “developing country”. The GEF has followed a practice of requesting a determination by the Convention Secretariat as to which countries are eligible under the financial mechanism in accordance with the guidance of the Conference of the Parties before proceeding with project development when a country could not be eligible under paragraph 9(b) of the Instrument since it is not eligible under World Bank or UNDP rules.

49. The Conference of the Parties is invited to review this matter, and to consider whether it would be possible to provide further clarification as to which specific countries are eligible for financing under the financial mechanism.

VI. CONCLUSIONS

50. The restructured GEF is now fully operational, and it is in the process of replenishing the GEF Trust Fund. The GEF has demonstrated that it institutionally complies with the provisions of Article 21 of the Convention, and its relations with the Convention have been formalized in the Memorandum of Understanding approved by the Conference of the Parties and the GEF Council. As is clear from its activities, the GEF has been fully responsive to the guidance of the Conference of the Parties concerning the policy, strategy, program priorities, and eligibility criteria relating to access to and utilization of financial resources to developing country Parties for purposes of the Convention.

51. As a result of its experience in operating the financial mechanism of the Convention for the past three years, the GEF now possesses unique operational and policy skills to assist countries in undertaking activities to meet the objectives of the Convention. GEF-financed projects have served to strengthen significantly the capacity and expertise of developing countries to address biological diversity issues. The GEF Implementing Agencies - UNDP, UNEP and the World Bank - have reinforced and demonstrated their institutional capacity to assist recipient countries in the development and management of biodiversity projects. The GEF Council confirms the willingness of the GEF to operate the financial mechanism of the Convention and looks forward to its continuing collaboration with the Conference of the Parties.

country Indicative Planning Figure (IPF). GEF grants for activities within a focal area addressed by a convention referred to in paragraph 6 but outside the framework of the financial mechanism of the convention, shall only be made available to eligible recipient countries that are party to the convention concerned.”
